Description

It's hard to imagine a fabric so interwoven with the flow of history as linen. Used since antiquity and viewed as a symbol of light and purity, it remains a staple in house wares, apparel, and décor. But linen is also difficult to produce, made from the flax plant in small batches, and is often costly. Enter Polyester Linen, a 100% polyester fabric with a look and feel like linen, but the durability, strength, and appeal of a synthetic fabric. With an open weave that gives it a lovely texture, this Polyester Linen is delightful and ready for your next project! In this charcoal variety, strands of gray, black, and white are interwoven into a beautiful display of character. Polyester Linen is washable, and can be used in many applications, from table coverings, skirts, and runners, to wall hangings, window treatments, and more! Add visual appeal and dimension to any room with Polyester Linen! Suitable for many decorative crafts as well, it can be used in many different home decors, from rustic to modern, to great effect.
